World War 2 May Cost U.S. Trillion Dollars

Crommelin Says Attitude Of Watchfulness Patriotic

Pentagon Critic Gives First Speech Since Restoration to Duty

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 11 (AP)—The navy's still burning firebrand, Capt. John G. Crommelin, stressed today that it is a patriotic duty to keep an eye on how the armed forces are organized and administered.

Crommelin, born here 47 years ago, addressed an American Legion meeting.

It was the first speech by the outspoken critic of Pentagon high command policies since he was restored to duty Tuesday after his 33-day suspension and reprimand for releasing to newsmen documents the navy styled "confidential."

These documents disclosed that several high ranking admirals agreed with him in fears that the navy was being stifled in the Pentagon. This led to an investigation by the House Armed Services Committee.

Crommelin did not repeat any of his earlier charges that nearly got him court martialed, nor did he directly mention any phase of the controversy. On this day of tribute to men who lost their lives in the First World War, he said:

"For us, the living, every American man and woman, it is a patriotic duty to keep informed and interested in the organization and administration of the armed forces so necessary to our security.

"You must not share and you cannot delegate this responsibility to anyone.

"In every instance of basic disagreement in the administration of the affairs of state you, the people, are the court of last resorts."

Crommelin had accepted the invitation to speak before he was suspended. After he was restored to duty—he is to be transferred to San Francisco—he was granted leave to fill the engagement.

Admiral Forrest Sherman, who replaced Admiral Louis Denfeld as chief of naval operations—one aftermath of the uproar Crommelin stirred up—said in granting leave that Crommelin "like any

Two Are Injured, Horses Involved

William Archibald Riding Animal; Carnright Was Dragged

Two persons were victims of the rearing and bolting of recalcitrant horses yesterday.

William Archibald, 63, of 201 Washington avenue, suffered internal injuries when the horse he had been riding reared up and fell over backwards at the driving park back of the armory on Manor avenue, and Malcolm Carnright, 17, of Lake Hill suffered a thigh fracture when he was dragged about 1,000 feet by a bolting horse near his home.

Mrs. Archibald, who was near her husband when the horse reared, said he was apparently struck by some part of the horse as it fell. She was feeding another horse at the time, she said.

Archibald was admitted to Kingston Hospital at about 4 p. m., and the Lake Hill youth at 6:45 p. m. Details of the Lake Hill accident were not available, but it was said the boy was leading the horse with a rope when it bolted and the rope caught on a leg.

The extent of Archibald's injuries was not determined, his wife said, but it was learned through X-rays that no bones were fractured.

Tatum Loses in Attempt

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 11 (AP)—a second attempt to break out of the Maricopa county jail has ended in failure for desperado Jack Tatum. Tatum, who escaped in a mass jail break attempt here October 22 only to be captured in returned in two weeks, was apprehended last night trying to cut through one of the bars on his cell window. Two companions were killed in his first dash for freedom and two others surrendered under a barrage of tear gas. This time sheriff deputies found he and his cellmate, Oliver Wayne Coursey, had sawed a fourth of the way through a bar on their cell window, using a piece of souped string and cleansing powder as an abrasive.

May Announce Plans

Los Angeles, Nov. 11 (AP)—James Roosevelt, F.D.R.'s eldest son, is expected to announce his intentions for the governorship of California next Tuesday. He scheduled a press conference for the afternoon and a radio broadcast that night. Political insiders figure that Roosevelt, after pulse-taking tours around the state, is now ready to make his candidacy known. His probable major opponent in the 1950 Democratic primary: George Luckey, Truman campaign manager in this state last year.

Ship Conference

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Union and shipowner representatives have agreed to meet in Washington Monday with top federal mediators in an attempt to settle a contract dispute that threatens a strike of 2,000 A.F.L. ship officers. Cyrus S. Ching, head of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, issued the invitations yesterday as the deadline neared for expiration of a contract extension period at midnight Tuesday.

Would Sound Out Lewis

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—The government was reported ready today to sound out John L. Lewis on letting a fact-finding board recommend a settlement in the coal dispute. It would be selected by President Truman. Lewis is known to be opposed to the idea. Still, officials said the White House wants to give him the same chance as was given his rival, Philip Murray of the C.I.O., in the steel strike.

Dinner Club Hears Of Marshall Plan Working in Africa

Count de Prorok Reveals Archaeological Finds in Historic Sahara Territories

Describing the Marshall Plan as "the greatest miracle the world has ever seen," Count Byron de-Prorok, noted archaeologist and explorer, showed the members of the Kingston National Dinner Club ways in which funds are being used to develop North Africa. "The world will never forget the name of Marshall," he continued, "especially the mothers whose children are having milk and enough food for the first time in their lives. You have won the war, and I think you have bought the peace," he said.

Count deProrok's address to the club Thursday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel was illustrated with colored movies which his expedition had taken on tours of Morocco, Sahara desert, Atlas and Hoggar Mountains. Fascinating pictures of tribes, Arabian horses and their mounts, casbah castles and ancient ruins highlighted a large portion of the films.

DeProrok recalled the history of North Africa which at one time was the greatest grain producing territory of the ancient world. He believes that with modern aid and education the land once again can be made a highly productive portion of the earth's surface as well as the source of many valuable ores, oil and uranium.

Some of the photos were devoted to the work of American, French and Swiss engineers and students in rebuilding areas of North Africa for cultivation. The spirit of pioneering in the fields of education, medicine, some industry as well as agriculture were caught in glimpses of the land. Comparison of old thatched huts with the new gleaming white buildings for homes, schools and hospitals, the primitive farm equipment with the modern, showed the value of the Marshall Plan.

DeProrok spoke of the possibility of a Trans-Saharan railway which would open up still further areas to civilization.

Johnson Says U.S. Has Plans To Move, if Attack Evolves

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson says plans are in preparation for possible movement of the seat of government from Washington if the city ever becomes the target for an attack.

These plans include movement of the command of the army, navy and air force from Washington, Johnson said.

The secretary added that "certain definite steps" have been taken to guard against "the contingency of a destructive military attack at the seat of his government." He did not disclose these steps.

His comment is contained in a letter to Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) which the latter made public today.

Wiley previously had asked Johnson what steps were being taken to decentralize in the event of an emergency.

"It appears to be obvious," Johnson said, "that in order for the nation to be able to develop its full war potential—in event of war—there must be located at the seat of government certain activities, both military and civil, to provide the collaboration, cooperation, and promptness of action necessary to the efficient use of that potential.

"Recognizing the fact that it is not beyond the bounds of possibility for Washington to be the target of a devastating or damaging attack, and that the seat of government might have to be moved as a result, it follows that plans should be prepared to cover this contingency. Such plans are in the course of preparation.

"Specifically, these plans include the movement of the three service elements of the Department of Defense to other locations and the designation of successors to military command."

The secretary also reported that the prior establishment of a joint command post for the Armed Forces, and facilities for this command post, are also under study.

He said certain projects in connection with the emergency command post would cost money. Congress, he added, will have to appropriate such funds.

Johnson made these added comments:

"It is important also that some decentralization or dispersal of military activities take place prior to and in anticipation of possible devastating military attack on Washington x x x.

"The preliminary studies of this matter are well under way and planning is proceeding actively."

The government has evacuated Washington only once, when the British invaded during the War of 1812. Gen. Jubal Early's Confederate troops menaced the capital briefly in 1864.

Big 3 Plan Talk About Occupation

Instructions and Power Given to High Chiefs in Western Germany for Negotiations

Position Is Taken

Poncet Refuses Further Information as Too Revealing

Paris, Nov. 11 (AP)—For the first time since the German war machine was crushed, the Big Three Western Allies prepared today to talk directly to a German Government about relaxing occupation controls.

The foreign ministers of France, Britain and the United States last night issued "certain instructions and powers" to their high commissioners in Western Germany for negotiating with officials of the West German Republic.

Details of the two-day talks by the Big Three ministers were kept a closely-guarded secret. There were indications the French, traditionally distrustful of Germany, still shied away from full agreement with the British and Americans on how far to ease Germany's postwar restrictions now.

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson planned to talk to Prof. Theodor Heuss and Konrad Adenauer, president and chancellor respectively of the new West German Government. He will fly to Germany later today to visit the western capital at Bonn.

Acheson's visit will be the first time since the war that so high an American official has conferred directly with the Germans.

The foreign ministers issued only the most general communique concerning the results of their talks. It said they proposed to "support and foster the progressive integration of the German people into the European community."

Andre Francois-Poncet, French high commissioner for Western Germany, said the three ministers had established a "common position for the forthcoming negotiations."

He excused the vagueness of the official communique by remarking: "When you enter negotiations you don't tell the other party what your position is."

The major issue confronting the Big Three was the program of dismantling of German industries—designed at Potsdam in 1945 to destroy permanently Germany's ability to build a war machine.

It was this issue that possibly left the Big Three in the air, pending future conferences and developments, because France continues to demand assurances that she will never again be threatened by her historic enemy.

Final decisions will probably not be made until the French national assembly meets Nov. 22 to debate the German question and other foreign policies.

Nevertheless, it was assumed by expert observers that the high commissioners would be told to discuss the dismantling question with the Germans, hoping to find a way by which French security could be satisfied.

Other things to be mapped out were the granting of a place for Germany in the European family and possible modification of the occupation statute which imposes strict allied control over the west German government.

Steps were already being taken to integrate the economy of the new state into the western European setup. Top German economic officials have been talking to the French finance ministry about a $250,000,000 annual exchange agreement.

Allied high commissioners announced yesterday in Bonn they have drafted ways by which the German government could carry on its own international trade—under allied eyes, of course.

It was expected that the west German republic would also be invited to take a seat in the newly formed council of Europe, the new unofficial parliament of a united western Europe.

Relaxing of the allied occupation statute possibly would give west Germany the right to send consuls and commercial representatives to foreign countries—but not ambassadors with diplomatic rank.

Lucas Avenue Repaved

The repaving of Lucas avenue from Washington avenue to the city line is completed, Ernest A. Steuding, superintendent of public works, announced today. The street now has a pavement of the "capital improvement type," he said. The work, which began October 31, was completed in less than two weeks.

Switch Field Used

Pittsburgh, Nov. 11 (AP)—Right-wing members of United Electrical Workers Local 610 couldn't have found a more appropriate place to vote themselves out of the U.E. into the new C.I.O. Electrical Union. The name of the meeting ground: "Switch Field." The C.I.O. last week ousted the U.E. for left-wingism and set up its own electrical union.

Krug Quits Cabinet for Business

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—President Truman today accepted the resignation of Secretary of the Interior Julius Krug and chose Undersecretary Oscar L. Chapman to succeed him.

The cabinet shift is to be effective Dec. 1.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross announced the President's action.

He would not say why Krug is quitting.

When asked about that, Ross said an exchange of letters between the President and Krug would be made public, later in the day.

He told newsmen to make their own interpretation after reading the exchange of letters.

There have been reports for a long time that Krug's relations with the President were declining.

Krug had told reporters yesterday that he was quitting, effective Dec. 1.

The general expectation had been that Chapman would get the cabinet post.

At 53 a veteran of many years in the government, Chapman is a favorite of Democratic National Chairman Bill Boyle and other party officials.

His elevation to head of the department will put two Coloradoans in the cabinet. He and Secretary of Agriculture Brannan are both from Denver.

Message Is Sent

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—Secretary of Interior Julius "Cap" Krug, whose relations with President Truman have been reported declining, has resigned from the cabinet effective Dec. 1.

Krug, at 41 the youngest cabinet member, made the announcement late yesterday—to reporters and Mr. Truman, in that order. Friends said Krug plans to go into private business.

Undersecretary Oscar Littleton Chapman, 53, is reported in line to succeed him even though that would place a second Coloradoan in the cabinet. Both Chapman and Secretary of Agriculture Brannan are from Denver.

Once intimate friends, Krug and the President apparently have not been on the best of terms recently.

There was some evidence of this at the news conference Mr. Truman held yesterday, several hours before Krug's resignation.

Asked about differences with Krug, and particularly whether he had written the cabinet officer a strong letter about reclamation policy, the President declined comment.

Friends said Krug apparently felt that Mr. Truman should have "been able to do better by him than that."

The President received the letter of resignation half an hour after Krug confided to reporters that he was leaving and had "wanted to leave for a long time."

It was explained later that the delay in delivery of the letter was inadvertent.

Letter by Messenger

Krug, it was said, sent the letter by messenger to Blair House, the President's residence, at 5 p. m.

The messenger, told that messages are not accepted there, returned to the Interior Department and then was re-directed to the White House. Before the letter finally reached the executive mansion, the President had gone home to Blair House.

White House aides indicated that although Krug's letter was "very friendly," Mr. Truman was displeased at the prior announcement to the press.

Krug had nothing to say on his plans. He has an interest in a Tennessee textile mill—in the area where, 10 years ago, he was chief power engineer for the Tennesse Valley Authority.

Chapman likewise had no comment. His wife said he was at his office all last evening writing an address he will give at San Francisco Sunday.

Chapman has been a member of the so called "Little Cabinet" for 16½ years.

He became assistant secretary of the interior in May, 1933, under Secretary Harold L. Ickes. He served as acting secretary in the six-week interim between Ickes' resignation and Krug's appointment, and became undersecretary the day after Krug took office in March, 1946.

Chapman was "advance man" for President Truman's western campaign travels last year, and was credited with much of the success of the tours. He was well

Ching Tells of Lewis' Snub

Cyrus Ching, Federal Mediation Director, talks to newsmen in his Washington office about John L. Lewis' snub of the government's bid to a coal peace conference. Ching said: "I haven't any plans * * * for calling any future meetings * * *." He added he was not ruling out the possibility that another government effort to promote peace might be made. *(A.P. Bolivian Denies Responsibility for Worst Plane Crash

Bridoux Says Under Oath He Had No Orders to Turn Off His Path

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—The lone survivor of aviation's worst air collision sketched his part of the picture without assuming any responsibility, and investigators called in new witnesses today.

Erick Rios Bridoux, Bolivia's civil air chief, pilot of a modified P-38 fighter that tore into an Eastern Airlines DC-4 near here Nov. 1, described his fateful 10-minute flight in a hospital quizzing under oath. All 55 on the airliner perished. The 42 pages of questions and answers were read into the record of the Civil Aeronautics Board's six-man inquiry panel yesterday.

Rios assumed no responsibility for the accident.

He said he had indicated engine trouble by radio, but did not declare an emergency; asked and received permission to land; saw no other planes in the sky; received no instructions to turn off his path of descent; believed he had a clear path and a clear runway for his landing.

Rios often emphasized his statements by repetition. It was apparent that at times he was speaking excitedly, occasionally tiring as he lay in bed with a broken back, broken ribs and the effects of exposure.

In some details, the story was in contrast with testimony from ground observers, including that of a lifelong friend, Maj. German Pol, Bolivian observer at the hearing.

Pol had accompanied Rios to Washington National Airport for a test flight of the P-38 before

Supervisors Hold Routine Session; State Cuts Rates

Figures Used to Apportion School and Franchise Taxes; Are Not Mandatory

The first meeting of the 1949 annual session of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors was held at the court house in Kingston Thursday night. Routine business was transacted by the 27 members who were present.

One communication received by the board disclosed that the State Bureau of Local Assessments has made considerable reductions in the rates of assessment it has set for most of the towns in Ulster county.

These rates are used in apportioning school and franchise taxes. They are not mandatory for use in apportioning the county real estate tax, as that tax is based upon an assessment rate table, or equalization table, which is adopted by the Board of Supervisors later in the session.

The considerable change in the rates from those of last year is due to the fact that the Bureau of Local Assessments, a division of the State Department of Taxation and Finance, has made a survey through the state and has released its findings during the past year.

Decreases in assessment rate were made in every town and village and the city of Kingston, with the exception of the village of New Paltz, where the rate was increased from 47 to 52. The following is the table of assessment rates set by the Bureau of Local Assessments this year, compared with the rates set by the same bureau last year:

	1949	1948
Denning	21	65
Esopus	17	44
Gardiner	23	40
Hardenbergh	28	53

Police Hunt Two Bandits Who Took Theatre's $15,200

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Two bandits, wise in the ways of show business, were hunted by police today for a $15,200 holdup of the Broadway Theatre.

The melodramatic robbery was staged last night about an hour before curtain time for the musical comedy, "As The Girls Go," which is playing at the theatre.

A score of theatre-goers milled about the lobby as the two gunmen entered through a rear door of the box office, covering theatre officials with their guns.

"Don't turn around—or else," one of them said, then demanded, "where's the skate box?"

"Skate box" is the show business term for the metal box in which the theatre's money is kept during business hours.

The loot included the day's ticket receipts, cash drawer change and the show's payroll, which had been brought to the theatre for distribution today to the show's performers, including star Bobby Clark.

Police said the gunmen's use of show business vernacular, and the fact that they had timed the robbery to coincide with the company's payday period indicated their familiarity with the theatre.

The robbers also were apparently aware of the layout of the building, near Broadway at 53rd street, in as much as they had evidently gained entrance to the still-darkened auditorium through a fire exit and made their way to the rear of the box office, police said.

In the box office at the time were Abraham Stein, general manager of the theatre; Murray Helwitz, treasurer, and Louis Melnick, assistant treasurer.

Stein described one of the men as slim and pale, about five feet nine inches tall, wearing a gray fedora, a black topcoat and black gloves. The other, he said, was stocky, about five feet eight, and wore a brown felt hat and brown polo coat. Both carried revolvers.

While the bandits were collecting the loot, Helwitz moved to one side from the ticket window, whereupon the stocky bandit commanded: "Get back there and keep peddlin' tickets."

One ticket-buyer slipped away, ran to a drug store and called police.

Gray Gives Figures to Back Stand

Cost of War, He Says, Is One Reason for Keeping U. S. Strong Militarily

Readiness Theme

Others Stress Idea U. S. Should Stay Big Defense Power

(By The Associated Press)

World War II ultimately may cost the United States more than $1,000,000,000,000, Secretary of the Army Gray said today.

That's one trillion dollars.

In a speech prepared for delivery to an Armistice Day audience at Greenville, N. C., Gray said the high cost of war is an excellent reason for keeping the United States military machine powerful.

He said a militarily strong United States might discourage another war precipitated by an aggressor—or might insure victory if war comes.

Gray declared that the army still wants two steps taken to assure its strength:

1. Retention of the Draft Act on the statute books instead of letting it expire next year.

2. Adoption of a universal military training system.

Gray was one of a number of notables who participated in Armistice Day ceremonies.

The nation's observance was led by President Truman, who was to place a wreath on the grave of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery.

The President had an Armistice Day speaking engagement at a luncheon meeting of the National Conference of Christians and Jews in Washington.

Numerous other government notables, military officials and civic leaders across the nation recalled in speeches the toll of past wars and urged the need for military readiness to prevent another.

George N. Craig, national commander of the American Legion, said in an address prepared for delivery at the Arlington tomb that the nation is observing Armistice Day this year "within the dark shadow" of the atomic bomb, because it failed to achieve enduring peace after the first World War.

Gray said in his speech that the initial outlay for World War I was about $27,000,000,000, while its eventual cost was estimated by President Calvin Coolidge at about $100,000,000,000.

Within a few years, Gray said, the cost of World War I had reached nearly half the total Coolidge had forecast. Gray added:

"The initial cost of our participation in World War II was about $350,000,000,000 or 13 times as great as the first war.

"It has been estimated that the ultimate cost of this war, including expenditures already made and commitments already assumed, will total fourteen hundred and four billion dollars."

He included in the war cost such items as recovery and occupations, veterans payments and interest on bonds.

While Gray devoted much of his speech to a discussion of the cost of war in dollars, Secretary of Air Stuart Symington, in an address prepared for a meeting at Welch, W. Va., considered the cost of war in men and resources as well.

Symington said that the total casualties for World War II, the wounded as well as the dead, were over a million. And he recalled that former Secretary of War Stimson estimated that an additional million casualties would have been suffered if an invasion of Japan had been necessary.

Then, after presenting dollar cost figures on the two world wars, Symington said:

"Furthermore, those two wars used up our natural resources—coal, iron ore, oil, timber, etc.—at an alarming rate. Even before the end of the last war, this "Arsenal of Democracy" was running short of many important raw materials."

Tragic Overtone

Craig said in his speech at Arlington National Cemetery:

"There is a tragic overtone to the solemn ceremony here today," he said.

"For the first time we are ob-

Edgar V. Allen, 74, Dies; Well Known Partner of Pardee

Edgar V. Allen, 74, of 24 West Chester street, who had played his fiddle for dancers in the Hudson valley and Catskill mountain regions for more than a half century, died at Kingston Hospital last night following a long illness.

The deceased and William Pardee, 76, of 66 Cerman street, first became interested in music when they were young men. They first played harmonicas and later Allen became interested in violin and Pardee in the accordion.

They were known throughout the area for years as Pardee and Allen and later as the Catskill Mountaineers. The latter name was taken about 25 years ago when the two were joined by Michael Amarello, 64 Prince street, a guitarist.

The trio played in recent years in communities from the Albany to the New York areas for both square and round dances and were engaged regularly on Saturday nights at the Irvington Inn, Woodstock where they played for 14 years.

Allen became ill some time ago and did not play with the others for a year and a half.

Pardee said today that he and Allen had played together for 57 years up to the time his partner became ill.

The deceased had served for many years as shipping clerk at the former American Cigar Factory, Broadway and Pine Grove avenue.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. James Davis; three grandchildren, Edgar V. Allen, Jr., Dan H. Allen, and Mrs. Dorothy Barnhart, and two great-grandchildren, John Perry Allen, and Richard Davis Barnhart, all of Kingston.

The funeral will be held from the Jenson & Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs street on Monday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in the family plot, Montrepose Cemetery.

Local Agents Are Sought for Goods

Frequent inquiries about business opportunities and possible local outlets for various products are received at the Kingston Chamber of Commerce Office according to an announcement made by Executive Secretary Albert Kurdt today. At the present time a rubber tire company is looking for a local distributor and manufacturers of several products are looking for local agencies to handle them. If any household appliances, hardware store or lumber company is interested in the possibility of adding a new line, Kurdt said the correspondence on file will be referred to them on request.

Adjournment Is Taken in Case

A further adjournment for a week was taken Thursday afternoon before Justice of the Peace George A. Tompkins when the intimidation charge against William Brissa of Stone Ridge was called. Brissa was not represented by counsel and after a statement was made to the justice to the effect that it had been anticipated the charge would be dropped, the adjournment was taken.

Brissa, defeated candidate for town clerk of the Town of Marbletown, is charged by Patrick Casey of The Vly with having made intimidating statements when it was reported Casey had allegedly made a statement he intended to cast his vote for Brissa's opponent. Casey swore out a warrant charging violation of the provisions of Section 772 of the Penal Law which deals with intimidation of a voter.

Casey charged that Brissa came to his premises and made threats of reprisal if Casey voted for the Democratic candidate and that he, Brissa, would see that Casey lost his highway job. The warrant of arrest was based on those allegations. Later it is charged Brissa paid a second visit to Casey, this time armed with a baseball bat for protection, but there was no allegation of any attempted threat made at that time, although State Troopers from the Lake Katrine barracks were summoned to the scene.

Hours Are Fixed For Yule Season

The Retail Merchants Division of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce has agreed on store hours for the Christmas season according to an announcement made by Chairman Gordon J. Peterson today. This retail group recommends that stores remain open on the following nights to 9 o'clock, in addition to the regular Friday hours, on Saturday, December 17, and Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, December 19, 20, 21 and 22. It was also decided to recommend the closing of stores at 5 p. m. on December 24.

This decision was made at a special meeting of the directors of the retail merchants division on Thursday. Other things discussed were special promotion days which are to be sponsored by the regional businessmen's associations, rather than by the city-wide group. The committee suggests that merchants mention the Christmas season store hours in their advertising during the first two weeks of December.

CHILDREN'S BOOK WEEK

November 13 to 19 is Children's Book Week and will be field day for the young folks at the library. Among the fascinating books which will be displayed are:

Henry-Fisherman by Marcia Brown—A story of the Virgin Islands, beautifully illustrated by the author. It tells of episodes in the life of small Henry, son of a fisherman on the island of St. Thomas. Children will be intrigued and half scared out of their wits (as they love to when they know they are safe) by the shark who almost, but not quite gets Henry. Miss Brown is a former Kingston girl. Her two previous books "The Little Carousel" and "Stone Soup" are in the library and are very popular.

The Painted Pig by Elizabeth Morrow—This charming little Mexican picture book is in its tenth printing. A story about a fat yellow china pig and two little Mexican children, Pita, who owns it and her brother Pedro who covets it. The difficulty is solved by Pancho, the toy maker. Illustrated in high colors, it is a book to own and to love. The author is a sister of another gifted writer, Anne Morrow Lindbergh.

The Big Show by Berta and Elmer Hader—This is perhaps the most beautiful book in the collection. The illustrations showing little native birds and animals in grey and in soft water colors are artistic gems. Three snow scenes are particularly lovely—worthy of framing. The story is about the coming of winter evidenced by the wild geese flying south, and the preparations made by the wild animals. Then comes the really big snow, burying the food supply, and what an old couple do to keep them from starving.

Little Boy Brown by Isobel Harris—This is an amazing little book about a little boy who lives in a hotel in a large city. Since both parents work he is alone all day. His best friends are the doorman, the waiters, elevator men and maids. One day Hilda, the chambermaid, takes Little Boy Brown to her home in the suburbs. There he sees such wonders as an "upstairs and downstairs house" (he went up and down 11 times); a canary that flew all around the house and a real policeman in the family. He had a chocolate cake made specially for him; helped to make a snowman, made friends with a dog. All in all a wonderful day.

Coal Makes Money

London, Nov. 11 (AP)—One of Britain's nationalized industries—the coal mines—is making money. Fuel Minister Hugh Gaitskell told Parliament yesterday the mines showed a clear profit of 6,500,000 pounds ($18,200,000) during the first six months of this year. That compared with a loss of 29,000,000 pounds in 1947, the first year of public ownership, and a profit of 1,500,000 pounds last year.

Mizel Elected Kiwanis President

Maynard Mizel was elected president of the Kingston Kiwanis Club at a regular meeting Thursday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel. He will succeed Harry Rigby, Jr., and will hold office for a one-year term.

Other officers elected were Charles Snyder, vice-president, succeeding Mizel, and Fred L. Van Deusen, treasurer, succeeding himself. Elmer Rylance, Bernard A. Feeney and George L. Chilson were elected directors for three years. The secretary post is appointive and is presently held by H. Van Wyck Darrow, who is expected to be re-appointed.

The new officers will be installed at the first regular meeting of the club in January.

The election of officers was without contest, with the members unanimously approving the slate as presented by the nominating committee.

After the election, the meeting time was devoted to work on Kiwanis Kapers, the annual variety show presented by the members to augment their youth welfare fund. This year's show will be held at the Kingston High School Auditorium Monday and Tuesday, November 28 and 29.

It was announced that the club will offer a prize to the student in Kingston High School art classes who produces the best poster advertising the show. A committee of Kiwanis members will be named to judge the posters.

This year members of the Key Club, a Kiwanis-sponsored club of high school boys, will assist in stage management at the Kapers. Parts in the production are acted by members of the Kiwanis Club.

World War 2 . . .

serving this sacred anniversary within a dark shadow. It is said that coming events cast their shadows before them. The shadow over this tomb today and over our entire nation is that of the suspended atomic bomb."

(His reference apparently was to the announcement of a Russian atomic explosion last summer).

Craig deplored the failure to win an enduring peace out of the first World War.

"We failed because we permitted our idealism to outrun our realism," he said. "We stripped our defenses and we led from weakness. This was an open invitation to attack. The invitation was accepted."

Arlington, where the President and the Legion representatives gathered, is in itself an index to the cost of war, measured by the toll of humanity.

There, on the rolling acres surrounding the Unknown Soldier's Tomb, are the graves of 69,607 other men. Mainly, they are those who fought in four major conflicts—the war between the states, Spanish-American, two World Wars.

Krug Quits . . .

thought of in Democratic party circles ever before the election.

Krug, on the other hand, was roundly criticized by the party faithful for not campaigning more ardently in 1948. Krug spoke for Mr. Truman in the pre-convention campaigning, but was not as active in speech-making thereafter as some of his cabinet colleagues.

County Committee Has New Name

The name of the Ulster County Agricultural Conservation Association has been changed to the Ulster County Production and Marketing Administration Committee. This change, which applies to all similar committees in in the United States, became effective September 29 under new regulations published in the Federal Register.

The former conservation associations have been handling the administrative details of the price support program, and in recent months these price support programs have taken an increasing amount of the time and attention of farmers as a group, according to Harry J. Beatty, chairman of the Ulster county committee.

The Production and Marketing Administration (P.M.A.) committee will continue to handle these programs in addition to the agricultural conservation program.

Both community and county committees will be elected, as in the past, in each of the 10 communities of this county. Any farmer who has an interest in a farm as an owner, tenant or sharecropper is eligible to vote if he has qualified for a payment or grant of materials and is presently carrying out at least one of the practices in the 1949 agricultural conservation program for Ulster county. He may also vote if he is eligible for a cooperator's loan or other price support. Those eligible to vote are being personally notified this week from the county office at 34 John street. There are more than 1,300 eligible voters in Ulster county.

direction of missionary workers the speaker noted and throughout the movies need for better living conditions especially for the women were noted.

All of the land is the same which once boasted a great civilization at one time the envy of Rome. Great aqueducts more than 120 miles long carried water from the mountains to Carthage and other photos showed the palaces and great walled castles of the ancient tribes.

In many parts the land is fertile and because of the climate an abundance of vegetation and beautiful flowers are to be found. The snow capped Atlas Mountains gave much of the landscape the appearance of California and other portions that of Arizona, the speaker said.

Similarities Noted

Photographs of the natives showed a striking resemblance to the American Indians and Mexicans. DeProrok called particular attention to this fact. He noted the similarity of their rug weaving to that of the Indians and also of their pottery and mosaic work.

In searching for lost civilizations deProrok's expeditions have found amazing works of art in the Mosaic tiles of the floors and walls of the ancient buildings, many of which are buried beneath sands and rock. A number of types of sculpture depict the kind of people who lived in the early days more than 3,000 years ago. One statue was a perfect form of a barking dog and another was a portion of an Arabian horse. Showing the Roman influence the archaeologist showed a large head of Julius Caesar. Ruins of Romanesque ampitheatres and coliseums comparable to the famous one in Rome were shown.

Tombs revealed much to the expedition. Make-up for the women was buried along with the body. Included were lipsticks, tweezers, perfume and one head revealed a permanent wave which had lasted more than 3,000 years. deProrok informed his audience.

Castles Are Shown

Some of the most unusual scenes were taken in the Atlas mountains of the feudal castles in the area known as the forbidden South. Many of the photographs were the first ever to be taken of the tribes and their abodes. He spoke of the original Amazons and showed some of the women who were descendants. He mentioned a sixth century Joan of Arc of the area which he described as one of the greatest military geniuses of all time. Today he showed the women as "beasts of burden," carrying 70 pounds of straw on their backs in 120 degree temperatures.

One sultan reputed to have 1,000 wives gathered about 600 of them together to give a reception for the expedition and deProrok's men filmed a ceremonial dance by these wives which lasted for 24 hours. With this portion of the movies he played a direct recording of the dance music.

At another spot the expedition found the Lost Oasis where a French doctor has organized a paradise of his own. A veteran of both world wars, he has settled in the heart of the North African country at an unchartered oasis where he is cultivating the vegetation, has a wide assortment of the wild birds, egrets, ostriches, and the animals such as the lovely gazelles. He has several of the native families working for him and returns to civilization once a year for medical supplies, and a few other items.

In the great Sahara the expedition pictured sand dunes which were estimated to be 1,000 feet taller than the Eiffel tower. On one of the safaris the group was engulfed in a sand hurricane for seven days and two of the men were lost.

Discovers Queen

In the final reel of film deProrok showed his expedition to the Hoggar Mountains where he discovered the tomb of the great white queen of the past. He described the giant tribe of the land where the men are seven feet tall and the women about 6 feet four. The natives are white have blue eyes and golden hair. The films showed the excavations necessary to find the tomb of the queen and some of the jewels. Around her neck were 800 emeralds and many bracelets were found on her arms. The entire find is on exhibition today in the National Museum of Algiers.

DeProrok hopes next summer to make another expedition into Arabin to find the city of the Queen of Sheba which he believes they have sighted from the air.

Howard R. St. John, president, presided at the meeting. Miss Ethel Hull asked the blessing and Warren Smith, secretary, announced that the next meeting would be in January.

Will Give Out Instructions on Removal of Snow

All city employes assigned to snow removal work will meet tomorrow at 7 a. m., at the barn of the public works department for instructions and test operations of equipment.

Ernest A. Steuding, superintendent of public works, will instruct the group as to their duties and the general plan for clearing the city's streets of snow, and the equipment will be sent over the various routes.

The city has 26 trucks and two road graders available for the work and separate crews will operate in the 12 sections mapped by the superintendent for prompt and efficient snow removal operations.

Two plows will be used in each of the 12 areas and the heavier trucks will be used in the hilly sections.

The men will be instructed in the handling of chains, operating the plows and other details, and will become familiar with the routes during the test runs.

American Education Week

During the current observance of American Education Week, The Freeman has been presenting a pictorial review of some of the activities in local schools. Herewith is shown a project at the M. J. M. School.

The miniature stages are samples of those made by every member of the English classes. The students make them in order to visualize how the plays they read in class would look on a stage. Besides that, it gives the students an idea of some of the problems of producing a play. Some stages are made completely, furniture and all by the pupils. Others have doll furniture used once the stage size and shape have been set.

Mrs. Ida Sherman, Peter Zegel, Patricia Bower, Beverly Schryver and Mary Ann Smith are shown, left to right, in the above picture. (Freeman Photo)

Woodstock, Nov. 11—After attending the opening of the exhibition of paintings by Mark Vukovic of Woodstock at the Albany Institute of History and Art, on Nov. 2, Morris Klein of Saugerties, had the following comments to make concerning the show:

"Twenty-two oil paintings comprise a strong and interesting exhibition by this artist, well-known in Woodstock, Saugerties and Kingston.

"One of the best landscapes is 'Storm Clouds Over Kingston,' a powerful canvas. Clean, pleasing color is found in all the paintings. The fruit and flower pieces are especially happy in harmonious color and simple treatment. Such canvases as 'Two Frightened Horses' are full of dramatic quality. There is nothing static about these pictures."

Crommelin Says

other navy officer would be responsible for what he says."

Crommelin's last act before flying down from Washington was to leave a copy of his speech with a staff member in Sherman's office.

Crommelin spoke on "National Security and the Citizen's Responsibility." He discussed discipline in a democracy and a citizen's duty and warned against "yes-men."

In reprimanding him, Sherman told Crommelin he showed disregard for naval authority. Crommelin didn't mention this, but he said:

"In my opinion we in America live and work under a highly intelligent democratic code which does not confuse lip service with discipline as do all totalitarian states."

He added that Germany, or Prussia, was perhaps the greatest offender. One expressed fear of the navy is that the "Prussian-type general staff" system might be outgrowth of present Pentagon policies.

"There is no place in this democracy of ours for a 'yes-man'," said Crommelin.

"The basis of real discipline, particularly when 'the chips are down' is mutual respect."

Fees and taxes received by the county clerk's office during 1949 were greatly increased over those received in 1948, the annual report of Harry D. Sutton disclosed.

In the twelve months closed October 31, 1949, the clerk's office turned over to the county treasurer about $11,000 more than it did in 1948, and at the same time turned over to the state treasurer approximately $80,000 more than in 1948. Most of the increase was attributed to the increased number of motor vehicle licenses issued. From license fees alone, the clerk's office sent $564,344 to the state this year and an additional $17,558 to the county treasury, the report stated. This report was received, read and filed by the Board of Supervisors Thursday night.

Another report from County Clerk Sutton was received informing the county of the amounts of mortgage taxes received by the clerk's office and turned over to the county treasurer for distribution to the towns. Following are the amounts due each town, as listed in the report:

Denning, $29.99; Esopus, $2,787.93; Gardiner, $1,428.21; Hardenbergh, $41.63; Hurley, $1,781.94 Kingston city, $16,243.70; Kingston, $441.19; Lloyd, $3,396.53; Marbletown, $1,330.63; New Paltz, $1,545.85; Olive $880.63; Plattekill, $1,447.60; Rochester, $2,051.50; Rosendale, $2,517.05; Saugerties, $7,258.30; Shandaken, $1,445.81; Shawangunk, $3,064.36; Ulster, $4,615.22; Wawarsing, $7,109.36, and Woodstock, $3,653.51.

Several resolutions were introduced to pay bills of county departments. Under the rules of the board, money resolutions are not voted upon the same night as introduced, but are held over for action at the next meeting. Following are the resolutions introduced Thursday night for action next Monday.

To the committee on county treasurer and sealer, to pay bills, $158.79; to committee on county court and surrogate, $572.25; to committee on printing (highways), $315.75; to the Justices' Fund, to pay quarterly charges for services of justices of the peace, $180; for travel expenses of the chief probation officer, $600; to the Veterans Service Agency for travel expenses, $500.

Other resolutions introduced and held over under the rule included one to levy unpaid school taxes upon the lands on which they are due, together with an added seven per cent penalty for late payment; to levy unpaid water rents with an additional 10 per cent; to levy unpaid sewer assessments in the town of Lloyd with two per cent additional, and to levy an assessment in the Wallkill sewer district in accordance with a resolution adopted October 17, 1949.

A motion to transfer $350 from the surplus fund to the soldiers and sailors burial fund was approved without opposition.

It was also resolved to advertise for bids on the printing of the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors. The contract for printing 550 copies of the proceedings, of which 350 are to be bound in paper and 200 in cloth, will be awarded the lowest bidder in the county, the resolution stated. Resolution carried unanimously.

Several requests for appropriations were received and referred to the committee on appropriations. They were:

From the county clerk, for maintaining and repairing records, $1,500; from the Motor Vehicle Department for clerk hire during rush periods, $1,000; from the committee on examinations and hunacy proceedings, $1,831.80; from the conservation department for white pine blister rust control, $999.36; from Department of Taxation and Finance for court and stenographer expense, $21,316.71; from the County Officers Association for membership dues, $150; from the county surrogate for repair of books, including rebinding, $750.

The annual session of the Board of Supervisors will continue every Monday, Wednesday and Friday night until further notice, Robert A. Snyder, clerk of the board, announced. The board adjourned until Monday, November 14, at 7:30 p. m.

ARMISTICE DAY

The change in thought between World War I and World War II appears quite clearly in the fact that the end date of the earlier conflict was promptly made a holiday, whereas V-E and V-J Days, while remembered, have not been officially designated. In 1918 we were perfectly certain that we had just finished "a war to end war". Such a victory was well worth adding to our list of holidays. In 1945, however, there was enough uncertainty about the future, added to the disillusionment over the outcome of the previous war, to quench any demand for a new holiday.

Thus Armistice Day still remains on the statute books as the formal holiday of the world wars. It is celebrated no longer as the anniversary of the closing of the war to end wars, but more as a day of hope that a way may yet be found to prevent a third great war. It remains as a recognition of the bravery of those who fought on the battlefields, and as a reminder that the ideals for which they fought and died have not yet been fully attained.

DEFICIT FINANCING

The federal government is expected by President Truman to pile up a $5,500,000,000 deficit in the fiscal year ending next June 30. Other forecasters think the final figure may be closer to $7,000,000,000.

Whichever total proves right, it will be the biggest deficit ever recorded in the United States during a prosperous peacetime. Many Americans may be somewhat shocked to realize that even when times are good and there is no war, the government cannot operate on anything near a pay-as-you-go basis.

In January Mr. Truman predicted the deficit for the current fiscal year would come to just $900,000,000. The President's latest report blames the changed outlook largely on an anticipated drop in tax revenues of $3,000,000,000. But spending also will be higher than planned—$1,600,000,000.

Mr. Truman's budget review says the expected decline in revenues will be an outgrowth of moderate decreases in prices, corporate profits and money incomes that accompanied the 1949 recession.

The added expenses are ascribed mainly to unlooked for increases in veterans' benefits, government purchases of housing mortgages and farm price supports. It is estimated the farm price props will now take $1,400,000,000 this fiscal year, compared to an original guess of only $600,000,000. Thus this item accounts for $800,000,000 — or half — the expected higher outlay by government.

Economic crystal gazers who believe the President's deficit forecast too conservative note that the Bureau of Agricultural Economics sees a further drop in farm income in 1950. This prospect coupled with the new broadened price support program just enacted is thought likely to boost the cost of supports to at least $2,000,000,000 for the year.

Furthermore, some prophets foresee a sharper general falling off in tax revenues than the President's experts do. They think decline in income will be widespread. Hence their prediction of a deficit of around $7,000,000,000.

This is not a cheerful picture, but one aspect of it lightens the gloom. These are not normal times of peace. This country is spending about $25,000,000,000 for foreign economic and military aid and its own military programs. Without the threat of a hostile Russia much of this outlay might be unnecessary.

Yet there is no help for it—the money must be paid out if we are to continue our striving for a stable, peaceful world.

The average American might think that in the light of these colossal burdens the Administration and Congress would strain every effort to save money on other fronts. But economy drives in Washington this year were a dismal failure. The new farm price bill emphasized that there is little disposition in the capital toward cutting down. The reverse seems to be true.

The President says he sees no way out but higher taxes. But 1950 is an election year and few people believe Congress would vote heavier levies at such a time.

Barring a surprising switch to strict economy, there apparently is no hope of getting out from under deficit financing until our foreign and military expenditures begin to taper off, or unless U. S. national income soars to unimagined heights.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

PRELUDE TO 1950

Too much can be made of the victory of Herbert Lehman over John Foster Dulles. President Truman, for instance, takes this election to mean an endorsement of the welfare state. While any victory could be so interpreted, other factors in this election are more pressing.

First of all is the fact that the shameless charge of bigotry against John Foster Dulles did not die down, nor did it boomerang as some anticipated. Governor Lehman pulled a sentence out of context and twisted it to give the impression that his opponent was anti-semitic. In spite of the defense of Dulles's integrity by such Jews as Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver and Bernard Baruch, the charge stuck sufficiently to show in the votes in the largest concentration of Jews anywhere in the world.

Similarly, the Democrats inhumanly made use of the fact that while Dulles is an important Protestant churchman, his son has become a Jesuit. They gave the impression that the father had denied the son. This lie died hard, as such lies do, and cost Dulles many votes. In this sense, the campaign was indescribably indecent but not decisive.

Republican statisticians anticipated the loss of New York city but not of up-state areas. However, about 2 per cent of the up-state vote did not show. This phenomenon may be many things, including the possibility that due to population shifts, the increased industrialization of up-state cities, occupational and geographical changes wrought by war, that anticipated vote may not exist at all. (The anticipated figures included permanent registrations.)

In New York city, the combined Democratic and Communist vote for mayor was 1,621,023. This represented two candidates, William O'Dwyer for the Democrats, Vito Marcantonio for the Communists. The combined Democratic and Socialist vote for United States Senator Lehman was 1,579,624, in the same city. It is not clear how the Communists voted in the senatorial race. But the "Daily Worker" fought Dulles and hailed his defeat. The combined Democratic, Socialist and Communist vote for Lehman should have been 1,936,047, which it was not. All these parties opposed Dulles. Actually, 2,577,193 votes were cast for mayor; 2,375,331 for United States senator. The missing 201,862 votes, cast for mayor but omitting the United States senator, will be variously interested. They probably represent the number of Communists who voted for Marcantonio and no one else. Some Democrats may not have voted for either Lehman or Dulles.

The Republican Party in New York state fell apart after Thomas E. Dewey's defeat in 1948. In New York city, the party, as an organized apparatus, hardly exists. It made no attempt to run its own ticket and resorted to fusion with the Socialists (Liberal Party) on local candidates while the Socialists fought Dulles most vigorously. This added an element of the ridiculous to the campaign.

The Socialists, however, did not produce any outstanding results. In a year when the Communists are more unpopular than they have ever been, when even a friendly gesture to Soviet Russia is anathema, shortly after the end of the trial of 11 Communists in Judge Medina's court, Vito Marcantonio, who no matter what he may say about it, represents to the voters the full Communist political strength, polled 356,423 votes, the Socialists, as the Liberal Party, produced 372,281 votes. The difference of 15,858 is too small to notice. The Liberal Party then has produced no important results. However, the combined Communist-Socialist vote 728,704, larger than the Republican vote, 571,071, is significantly indicative of left wing strength in this city. It is also interesting that while the Republicans were poverty-stricken, both the Socialists and the Communists were able to spend enormous sums, astonishingly large for a non-presidential election.

The repudiation of the Communist candidate in Harlem, Benjamin J. Davis, is significant. Davis has been convicted in a conspiracy charge, his election would have branded Harlem as a Communist area. All anti-Communist parties combined on a single candidate, Earl Brown. Both candidates are negroes.

It is impossible to discover an endorsement or a rejection of the welfare state in this hodge-podge of divergencies, personalities, and bigotries, smears, lies, deals, tricks and just dirt.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

STRENGTH OF HEART

A close relative had me examine his heart one morning. He had had a heart murmur caused by an attack of tonsillitis. After he had his tonsils removed, the heart murmur was still present, but his heart beat returned to normal after exercise and there was no enlargement of the heart. I advised him that his heart was strong enough for ordinary work and such sports as skating and golf if he didn't take golf seriously. I then telephoned a heart specialist who was able to give him an examination that afternoon.

I was present at the examination. The blood pressure and the heart rate before, immediately after, and two minutes after exercise were taken; the fluroscope (which shows the position and size of the heart) and the electro-cardiograph (which records the rhythm and height and depth tracings of the heart's beats) were used.

After looking at the tracings of the electro-cardiograph, and the drawing made by an assistant of the findings of the fluroscope, the heart specialist had the patient sit down while he asked him a few questions. "Where do you live? Do you drive to your employment? Do you sometimes use a bus or streetcar on your return home in the evening? As I know that district well, it is a little uphill—do you get out of breath walking from the streetcar to your home at your ordinary rate of walking? Do your ankles swell after this walk, which I judge is about half a mile?"

He then told the patient that while the readings of the electro-cardiograph and the picture and size and position of the heart obtained by the fluroscope were important, the fact that his heart rate was not unduly fast after exercise and came back to normal after exercise, and that he could walk a half mile without getting out of breath upgrade at the end of the day, was even more important.

He told the patient that despite the damage done to his heart by the tonsillitis, he had nothing to worry about as long as he continued to live on his present level of physical and mental activity. He had a good "serviceable" heart.

This exercise test shows the strength of the heart muscle, but unfortunately does not tell the exact condition of the blood vessels feeding the heart muscle. It is weakness of these blood vessels which causes heart stroke or coronary thrombosis.

They'll Have to Make It Easier Than This

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Hays, Kansas.—An old French boxcar ends its journey in Kansas today. It has crossed one ocean, carried troops to a score of battle fronts and toured every county in Kansas. Probably a junk dealer wouldn't give more than 20 bucks for it, but this old car and the keepsakes inside it represent a million dollars' worth of sentiment.

No one in France, when they went to all the work of loading up this boxcar with 48 others, for their friends in America, ever dreamed what would happen when the cars arrived. One is enshrined on the old state capital grounds in Louisiana; another stands in the capital grounds at Bismark, N. D.; another is located at Olympia, the capital of Washington; while Minnesota and Mississippi have enshrined their boxcars on their state fair grounds.

Nor did anyone in France dream that the contents of these cars, ranging from the flag that flew over Verdun in 1914 to mere dolls given by the poorer children of Paris, would be displayed in museums throughout the land, from Louisville, Ky., and Newark, N. J., to the capital rotundas of Wisconsin, Ohio and Arkansas, to the huge exhibit arranged by Grover Whalen in New York city, into which thousands of people streamed every day.

Friendship Reverberates

It has been nine months now since the French people sent their boxcars to the people of America, but the echoes of friendship are still reverberating through big city libraries and small country schools, or carried in exhibits throughout the state. Wisconsin, like Kansas, has mounted its car on a trailer, and it is still touring every county; and, after this tour is over, Wisconsin plans to box the French gifts and send them out on a five-year-program of display in individual schools. Yet Wisconsin is supposed to be a German-American state.

Another byproduct of this French Merci Train has been millions of letters sent from the children of the United States to the children of France. This may start a chain of friendly correspondence lasting into the years.

It would take several newspaper columns to describe all the steps taken by all the 48 states to show their appreciation of France's appreciation.

But the most significant part of this whole story is that almost no one of the many millions of Americans who contributed to the Friendship Train two years ago this month had any idea it would be reciprocated.

It was hoped, of course, that American generosity would be appreciated—though there were even some skeptics as to that. But no one had the remotest dream that several million of the French people would make the great effort to load 49 boxcars with all sorts of paintings, statues, keepsakes and heirlooms—some of them priceless in terms of sentiment—to send to the American people.

Exchange of Two Trains

So, on this Armistice Day, the most important conclusion to be drawn from this exchange of two trains between the people of France and the people of the United States is that the ordinary folks from Kansas to Normandy—the folks who have to go out and do the fighting and the dying when wars come—are now determined to work at diplomacy. They don't entirely trust the diplomats. And it may be that in the long run they can do as much or more than ambassadors—when not hampered by iron curtains.

The 1918 Armistice

This is in direct contrast to what happened 31 years ago after the Armistice of 1918. At that time the American people, idealistic, inexperienced in the field of foreign affairs, were inclined to think that all they had to do was sign a peace treaty and then forget about it. Peace, they believed, was something inscribed on bethibboned parchments which one left to diplomats.

So, shortly after the Armistice of 1918, most of the American people went back to work; the U. S. Senate decreed that we should have nothing to do with Europe; and big business concentrated on chasing the almighty dollar. "Back to normalcy" was the watchword thrown out by Warren Harding, and generally speaking correctly called the tune for the country.

The 1945 Armistice

But after the V-E and V-J Days of this last war, it has been different. The American people, it is true, are tired. Some of them are worse than tired. They are discouraged and cynical. But they also know that if we had done our part toward the rest of the world in the 1930's, we would not be burying our war dead in the 1940's.

Above everything else, the American people are determined that there shall be no more war. And they know that when they merely trusted diplomats in the past, we have had wars. Therefore, individual Americans, tired as some of them are, are quite willing to help the diplomats.

That's why there have been so many CARE packages sent to Europe. That's why several million letters deluged Italy during its elections and helped win the battle for democracy. That's why 20,000,000 Americans contributed to the Friendship Train. And that's why every American was pleased and delighted when the people of France unexpectedly showed their appreciation by sending us their Merci Train.

For peace is pretty much like matrimony. You can't quit working at matrimony immediately after the marriage license is signed. And you can't run out on peace the minute the ink is dry on a treaty. Peace is just as hard to win as war, and much less exciting. For there are no brass bands playing as we march down the road to peace.

So perhaps the basic thing to remember about the two trains exchanged between the French and American people is that it is not difficult for people who know each other to live in peace with each other. France has weathered a Napoleon, a great revolution, the crash of many republics, but still the people of France remain our friends—because we know each other. The governments which sign treaties come and go, but the people who enforce treaties go on forever.

Of course, I am chiefly paid to pry into cabinet meetings and report on closed-door sessions, so this may be boring to some people. But anyway I'll try tomorrow to report on what a great many Americans are doing individually to help win the peace.

Prophesy Is Made: Sherman May Be Tabbed as Man Who Saved Navy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 11—Admiral Forrest Sherman, the new chief of naval operations, could conceivably be known some day as the man who saved the navy from disintegration and collapse.

The recent controversy has placed the case of the navy not only before the public but before civilians who will decide its fate—the top level secretaries and members of Congress. Will they take Admiral Sherman's advice?

One immediate consequence of the recent change has been the quiet development of a plan by Secretary Matthews and Admiral Sherman to spare the navy some of the drastic cuts scheduled for next July. There now is a possibility that the navy will not have its air power diminished as extensively as was feared when it became known that orders had been issued to eliminate many carriers.

The effort now is to find some other places to economize in the navy's budget—as, for instance, in the huge shore establishments—so as to make it possible for more aircraft to be purchased for naval aviation. Unfortunately, too many people think of a navy as consisting only of seagoing ships. They think of steel and other components, when the real necessity for a modern navy is more and more aircraft and the maintenance of its trained personnel. The navy doesn't need more ships now. It has in reserve plenty of ships. What it needs is modernized decks for existing carriers and modern weapons to use on the mission of a modern navy. This mission primarily is control of the air over the seas and over those portions of the inland coasts from which control of the air over the seas can be threatened.

Admiral Sherman not only is an aviator but he comes fresh from an aircraft-carrier task force in the Mediterranean, where the British have forsaken their responsibilities due to financial difficulties and where the United States thus far has failed to provide a substitute defense.

As matters stand now, the United States is weak in the Mediterranean. The myth that the Russians have no navy must give Moscow quite a chuckle. For they have a fleet of battleships, cruisers and destroyers in the Black Sea which can get into the Mediterranean pretty quickly and, with the aid of about 2,000 land-based planes of a coastal force, could raise havoc with the tiny aircraft-carrier task force which is stationed there and which Admiral Sherman recently commanded.

Published dispatches in the last few days also tell of Russian submarines in the Mediterranean, coming out of bases in Albania. These bases, while not covered as yet with concrete protection, probably would be so covered in wartime.

Admiral Sherman has a tough job ahead of him. He can hold up his end in conferences at the joint chiefs of staff because he has the absolute confidence of Secretary Matthews and Secretary Johnson. But can he win the confidence of the Navy itself? That will take time. It will come when high officials here stop thinking of the Navy as just a bunch of "fancy Dans" or of the recent controversy as arising from only a few naval aviators. The feeling goes deeper. It is related to a deep-seated belief that the spirit and letter of the unification law have been violated by the two-to-one decisions in the joint chiefs of staff.

So the problem now is to build mutual trust and confidence. Secretary Matthews has been through a grueling experience and knows now what are the pitfalls. His position under the secretary of defense is stronger because now everybody knows that the key to the controversy is naval aviation and that inter-service ambitions or rivalries should not permit naval aviation to be impaired. Secretary Matthews is known to be anxious to demonstrate to the Navy itself that he is as zealous in behalf of the service he represents as has been any predecessor secretary.

Emotional feeling such as has been stirred up by the controversy will not vanish overnight. But it will disappear in time as the evidence mounts up that the Navy is not to be deprived of the air force it needs to bomb submarine bases of the enemy, to lay mines in enemy's inland waters and to defend its control of the seas against the long-range bombers and fighter planes that emerge from the land bases of the enemy.

Confidence inside the Navy in Admiral Sherman and Secretary Matthews will grow as the President and Secretary Johnson see the need for giving the Navy the air power it requires to carry out its primary missions as laid down in the Key West and Newport agreements.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Nov. 10—With the publication of the second instalment of the memories of Eleanor the Great, the public, posterity and history are beginning to catch shy intimations from devotees who write the slanted book reviews in New York as to the marital relationship between the couple who set a certain moral and spiritual example for their own children and for a whole generation of other people's children in the United States. There may be more and more candid admissions as time goes on, admissions in the form of assumptions as though it had been an understood fact that these two were estranged, but I believe we actually have news here.

In the Sunday Book Review of the New York Times, Elizabeth Janeway, described as the author of a wartime novel about Washington "and other books," wrote: "She had built her life, one feels, and it ran close to the course of his life, but it was not the same, not a life lived in common.

"There was some barrier between them, some shyness culminating in withdrawal, some willfulness blunted, some misunderstanding that made them always two people. She had started out so dutifully. She had borne six children in eleven years, striven so hard to become the proper kind of young society matron, put up with the domination of Mrs. James (Roosevelt, her mother-in-law). And when she had begun to look for outside interests she had dutifully sought them where her husband's interest lay. * * * Unable to dedicate herself to her husband—why, we shall never be sure—she ended by dedicating herself to his work. * * * On the basis of an unusual if not unsatisfactory marriage was built an edifice of cooperation, of mutual aid and respect which was of immeasurable influence."

Such delicacy may be appropriate to a mood of political adulation, but it is not forthright and I belong to a school which abhors intimations. There is a suggestion here that the Roosevelts were at odds. There had been external indications, principally the wife's calculated absence most of the time from a man who was paralyzed from the waist down. I have heard pseudo-intellectuals try to explain how an affectionate wife could unnecessarily, but willingly, yea, even gladly, live apart from a stricken husband, but I have never been convinced. This reviewer gives me to suspect that she knows whereof she writes and more beside.

Now to go back a way, I observe that in her little book of memories called "Washington Tapestry," published in 1946, Olive Clapper, the widow of a truly heroic but gullible idealist, Raymond Clapper, was much more to the point.

Olive, too, for some reason unfathomable to me, for she is a wise girl who never showed symptoms of New Deal Madness when we were young, is rapturous over Eleanor the Great. I find it hard to believe that she sincerely believes such tripe, but she writes that the Gab's calculated exploitation of her status to develop a personal political machine in the bureaucracy "called down on her head angry outbursts of those who have forgotten the weak and lonely and the quality of mercy." However, we who fought the Communist filtration and the sly corruption of honor in office did so only at the calculated risk of pietistical smears.

I had overlooked until recently a passage in Olive's book which I now read in the light of the ray through a widening candor.

"Like other married couples," Franklin and Eleanor had their disagreements, Mrs. Clapper says. "There was a persistent rumor of a love affair in the early twenties. Mrs. Roosevelt was reported to have called her husband and the enamored woman to a conference, at which she offered to give her husband a divorce if the woman wished to marry him. A Catholic, the woman could not marry a divorced man. When she expressed these sentiments, Mrs. Roosevelt issued an ultimatum that they must stop seeing each other to which they promptly acquiesced. For a man as handsome and gay as Franklin Roosevelt it is interesting that he was singularly free from entanglements with the feminine sex."

In the absence of public challenge, I take it that this episode is conceded.

The last sentence of Ollie's quotation speaks volumes. There, I think, you have the idea which en-

Dulles Would Go Back to U.N. if Asked by Truman

Watertown, N. Y., Nov. 11 (AP)—John Foster Dulles intimates he would go back to the United Nations, if President Truman invited him.

The defeated Republican senator, former member of the U. S. delegation, said yesterday that "anything about the U.N. would be up to President Truman."

A reporter, inquiring about Dulles' plans, had asked:

"How about the U.N.?"

Before that question arose, Dulles said he had no plans beyond a two-week vacation on Main Duck Island in Lake Ontario, near here.

He added that he was "free" for the first time in many years.

"I've resigned from the law firm (Sullivan and Cromwell of New York). I've left the U.N. and the Federal Council of Churches, and I've given up all the board and directorates on which I had served. In fact, I'm completely unattached and unaffiliated."

Dulles, G.O.P. foreign affairs authority, had participated in every U. N. Assembly session before he was appointed senator by Governor Dewey last summer for an interim term.

Former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman defeated Dulles in the Senate election Tuesday.

Dulles repeatedly attacked domestic policies of the Truman administration during his campaign and said the bi-partisan approach to foreign affairs might be doomed if he were not elected.

Former Senator John Sherman Cooper, Kentucky Republican, was appointed September 14 by President Truman to succeed Dulles in the U.N. appointments are for the duration of each U.N. session.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Nov. 11 — Burton Feany, one of the older residents of Boiceville has made good progress towards recovery following a hospital sojourn and is expected home from Kingston some time this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wiederspiel, Jr., were numbered among the local property owners who came up from the metropolitan area to vote at the local polling place.

Mrs. Chauncey Teas, who was tendered a dinner at the Kirkland Hotel Tuesday evening, Nov. 1, in honor of her 85th birthday, has a number of friends in the reservoir country where she resided in early married life. Mrs. Tease's old home was along the road leading from Shokan to Brown Station.

Members of the Olive Legion Post Auxiliary at a meeting in the Ashokan schoolhouse Monday evening named Mary North as publicity officer of the new organization.

Everyone was pleased to see Lemuel E. DuBois, one time supervisor of Olive, out to vote on Tuesday. "Lem," newly elected tax collector, though unable to walk for the past year or more, was able to come to the polls with the aid of friends and his electrically operated wheel chair.

Donald Isackson of Esopus was a caller here Wednesday. Donald, a new resident of Esopus, reports that the Republican victory parade in his town was really something to talk about.

New voters registered in the Olive 1st Election District were as follows: Wolfgang Adels, Ruth Avery, John Davis, Robert Peck, Elson Oakley, Jr., Robert Gray and Charles Sierra.

George Gulnack and Douglas Glass, K.H.S. students from Ashokan, are numbered among the youthful nimrods who are sporting new rifles this year.

Improvements at the garage of Alonzo and Robert Haver, Ashokan Ford dealers, include a grease room which is nearing completion on the north side of the sales room.

Mrs. Elwyn Winchell, former postmaster of Shokan and Olive Red Cross chairman, observed her 84th birthday last Sunday. Mrs. Winchell continues at her duties in the corner store after having served the public faithfully for more than half a century.

While the flow line of the great Ashokan Reservoir keeps going down, indicating a serious water supply situation for New York city unless a heavy rainfall comes this month, the rapid depletion there reflects a correspondingly low ebb in the Ashokan's many feeder streams in this section. (Be tough, now, on the brook trout if they have to go through another worrying spell so soon after the termination of the big drouth).

Earl Brundage, retiring tax collector of Olive, was taken ill just before election and was unable to cast his vote for the first time in many years.

Fred Weeks, Sr., local bottled gas dealer, has taken over the coal hauling business formerly operated by his younger son, Irving, Boiceville war veteran. Irving has employment with his truck in the Lackawack area.

The entry of Harry S. Winchell and son, Bruce, in the radio and television business in Kingston, as reported by Friday's Freeman, is of interest to a number of local residents. Harry has relatives and friends up this way; he is of old Olive stock, his great-grandfather, Jacob Winchell having been pastor of the Olive & Hurley O. S. Baptist Church 90 years ago.

Hazel Bell, Shokan school teacher, arrived home Wednesday afternoon from Illinois where she has been staying the past two months. Miss Bell was accompanied here by her sister, Mrs. Frank Graham, formerly Anna Bell of the old village of West Shokan.

British Assured U. S. Won't Tamper With Gulf Stream

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—The British had assurance today that Uncle Sam isn't going to swipe the gulf stream from them.

He jolly well couldn't do it if he wanted to, don't y'know.

It had worried British Air Power Expert Lord Strabolgi. So much so that he told his fellow-Peers in London Wednesday:

"There are hotheads in the United States who talk quite glibly—'In the event of your going Communist,' as they call it—of diverting the gulf stream by the use of immense atom power in the Atlantic."

It would put the British on ice—literally—if we could and did do it. Without the warm waters of the gulf stream, a British winter would be even worse than a—well, than a British winter.

But a spokesman for the Geographical Society of America said soothingly that he couldn't see much chance of altering the gulf stream, even if he wanted to.

And Dr. J. Lamar Worzel, of Columbia University, said reassuringly that atomic power is puny against the force of the stream.

Finally, Dr. Albert E. Parr of the American Museum of Natural History, called any such idea "fantastic."

Mayor Dislikes His Job

Aberdeen, Idaho (AP) — The mayor of this potato town of 1,500 people doesn't like the job—he'd rather farm. Keeping pigs out is one of the troubles of Mayor James Chapman, 58. It's against the law to raise 'em in town. "This stuff of telling people what to do isn't in my line," Chapman said. "I'm not cut out to have all that power." But Aberdeen, where there are more churches than filling stations, insisted that Chapman take a second two-year term. He said "people just figured I'd be able to devote more time to the mayor's job than anyone else." His salary is $75 a year.

Proclamation

Washington, Nov. 10 (AP)—Here is the text of President Truman's Thanksgiving Day proclamation:

In accordance with our cherished custom, let us pause from our labors for one day in this autumnal season and offer prayers of thanks to the Divine Giver of our bounty.

We are grateful for the plentiful harvests of our fields, for the abundance of goods produced by our industries, and for the multitude of spiritual blessings which enrich our lives.

We are thankful that our resources enable us to aid the peoples of other countries in the furtherance of economic well-being and security.

We deeply appreciate the strength of our democratic institutions and the preservation of those ideals of liberty and justice which form the basis of national stability and international peace. The times demand more than the wisdom of man can provide. There should be in the hearts of all good men and true a realization that as the psalmist said: "There is no king saved by the multitude of an host; a mighty man is not delivered by much strength." Humbly grateful for these benefactions, may we add to our prayers of thanksgiving a plea for Divine guidance of the leaders of our nation and the leaders of all other nations in their efforts to promote peace and freedom for all men.

Now, therefore, I, Harry S. Truman, President of the United States of America, having in mind the joint congressional resolution of December 26, 1941, which made the fourth Thursday in November a legal holiday, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 24, 1949, as Thanksgiving Day, and I urge all citizens to observe the day with reverence. Let us, on the appointed day, in our homes and in our accustomed places of worship, give thanks to Almighty God for the blessings which have signalized our lot as a nation, and let us ask for the gift of wisdom in our striving for a better world.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this tenth day of November in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-nine and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and seventy-fourth.

As Pegler Sees It

ables the Roosevelt Cult to review without blinking the marital record of four of the five Roosevelt children whose adventures are calmly explained as "individualism."

Almost from the hour of his first inauguration, Roosevelt's wife sped from, not to, the side of an afflicted spouse and a rough calculation based on the evidence of her newspaper datelines indicates that she was absent from the White House 75 per cent of the time from September, 1942, to September, 1943. During this year, travel was restricted and automobile tires and fuel for cars and planes were severely rationed to those whom Ollie, and others of the Cult, so haughtily, if truthfully, regard as "forgotten" human beings.

One of Eleanor's trips took her in a wide sortie about the South Pacific, but eventually, and inevitably, to Guadalcanal where her protege, Joe Lash, was stationed in the army. The public paid for this rendezvous although she did make a little pretense that she was going on some semi-public business and would give the Red Cross the receipts from her column during that time. The Red Cross flatly refused to give any information. The public treasury of the United States was bilked of the cost of this sentimental journey and though she did concede the principle that restitution should be made, a mere token gift to the Red Cross only emphasized the wrong.

Pat Robinson, of the International News, present then on Guadalcanal, reported that "about 31 or 32 planes" were sent to escort Mrs. Roosevelt's plane, an incalculable expense to posterity and an incalculable hazard to the fliers and other fighting men reliant on their efforts in legitimate war.

As she progressed through a hospital, chatting with wounded and sick men, Pat followed close behind and asked one patient his impression of the honor of seeing the President's wife.

"I'd rather see my own," he said.

This seems an appropriate retort to the emotional ballyhoo published in the Herald Tribune under the name of Lewis Garnett, who is cited 14 times in the reports of the Committee on un-American Activities. Gannett seized upon an exclamation attributed to a boy at Guadalcanal: "Gosh! There's Eleanor."

Brazil's Rubber Production

Rio de Janeiro (AP)—Production of natural rubber for the first six months of this year ran about 1,856 tons. It may not go over 4,000 for the entire year. Official figures bounce up and down violently. A total of 4,000 would be just about a record low. Last year it was 5,446 tons, after a dizzy dive from 14,510 in 1947. Record high in 22 years came in 1944 with 21,192. In 1905 rubber was second only to coffee, as Brazil's leading export product. The United States and, a long stretch behind, England, France and Germany, are the main buyers of this year's crop.

Bonus Bureau Is To Distribute Big Fund to Veterans

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 11 (AP)—The State Bonus Bureau is preparing to distribute approximately $25,000,000 in bonus payments to World War 2 veterans living outside of New York state.

The bureau said yesterday it expected 150,000 applications from ex-servicemen who enlisted from New York but later moved.

Payments to these veterans and the next of kin of those who have died were authorized in a constitutional amendment approved by the voters last Tuesday. Previously, only New York veterans still living in the state were eligible.

The money will come from the approximately $83,000,000 remaining out of the $400,000,000 originally voted for the bonus.

Lest We Forget

He was more than a pal, was that Buddy of Mine;
The friendship between us was something just fine.
We hiked up to the front in the same old platoon,
And went over the top by the light of the moon.
All hades broke loose when we hit the first wire—
It sure looked as though the whole world was on fire;
Then a big one came over that landed close by,
And my Pal "went west" with his face to the sky.
Somewhere "Over There," where the red poppies nod,
There's an army awaiting the last call from God.
And so long as I live my heart will still pine
For the friendly handclasp of that Buddy of Mine.

Pitching Horseshoes

By BILLY ROSE

Did you ever hear about the hex of Bix? Well, neither did I, until the other night when a trumpet player told me the frightening fable in one of the jimjam joints on 52nd street.

To savor it to the nth, you'll have to bear in mind that jazz musicians fall into two contentious categories—sweetmen and riddemen. The former, as hepcats will tell you, follow their orchestrations and specialize in the Businessman's Foxtrot, while the latter go in for weird improvisations and worship a bearded god named Dizzy Gillespie.

And now, at long and languid last, to our story. . . .

Bix Beiderbecke, as you probably know, was the Young Man With a Horn who achieved a certain amount of clinical fame back in the 20's by blowing notes on a trumpet that Bach didn't know existed. Like most dedicated jazzults, however, he had a lot of whacky wheels in his head, and whenever they got to spinning too fast he'd puff on a marijuana cigarette to slow them down.

One night while playing in a roadhouse outside of Chicago, he inhaled more than his usual quota of fog-fags and shortly before sun-up went out to a nearby field and planted several marijuana sprouts. According to the busboy who spied on him, he then raised his arms to the moon and emitted a series of high-pitched cries which could only be interpreted as a curse on anyone who ever molested his private patch.

When Bix returned to the paradiddle parlor, he told the manager what he had done. "I'll be back next year to harvest the crop," he said. "In the meantime, don't let anyone touch my plants."

The manager, one of Beiderbecke's more frenetic fans, faithfully promised to protect the patch, and from then on the musicians who played his roadhouse were instructed to avoid it as if it were a Haydn sonata.

Some years after Bix blew his last riff, the much-talked-about curse was challenged by a young trumpeter named Mort Glenway. One night, miserable because he was getting nowhere with the bouncy blonde who sang with the band, he went out to Bix's patch and picked some of the leaves in spite of the manager's warning that he'd be whammied for life.

Half an hour later, full of muggle smoke, he picked up his horn, and aficionados who heard him swear he sounded like the spittin', triple-tongued image of Bix.

The bouncy blonde, wrapped in the spell of his billowing belltones, agreed to marry him, and when the ceremony took place the following afternoon the clef cliques around Chicago became plenty worried. It looked as if the hex were working in reverse.

But, of course, Bix didn't let them down.

Six months later, word got around that the blonde was hitting the bottle and giving Mort plenty of grief. And from the Famous Door in New York to Jack's in San Francisco, the gut-beaters told each other, "Serves the bum right."

But the real potency of Beiderbecke's hex became apparent the following year when a columnist reported that the blonde had left Mort and was keeping company with a fiddle player in Wayne King's waltz band.

"Ol' Bix must be laughin' in B-sharp tonight," said a hop-happy musician. "Imagine losing your girl to a corn merchant who smokes nothing but Melachrinos!"

World Wide Armistice

The feelings, that come over us,
When Armistice Day, draws near,
Are thankful thoughts,
And grateful prayers,
For the first world war, that ceased.

And so again, we call aloud,
"Dear God, be with us now
And let this second world war be
The end of all world wars.

Bless all the nations, far, and near,
With wisdom, from above,
And love, that passeth knowledge,
To live in peace, as One."

College Club Hears Of Philippine Islands

Mrs. Eleanor Harvey, a missionary in the Philippines from 1929 to 1944, addressed the Kingston College Women's Club at its meeting in the First Dutch Church Chapel Tuesday evening. Her subject was Philippine Experiences.

People who lived in the Philippines through the war are saddened by the reports they hear from those islands, she noted. Much of the violence is due to the fact that many of their people do not have the bare necessities of life, she said. It is not the physical destruction that makes people incapable of living as they did before the war, it's the moral and emotional shock.

In war, lying becomes a virtue and people are taught that it doesn't matter if they deceive the enemy, the speaker explained. But it does matter for the young people cannot understand that as soon as the war is over, people must go back to another set of standards.

While the speaker was interned during the war, she taught English in the concentration camp. Inspired by a sense of security in the universe, she wrote under a black-out light a sonnet sequence. Although the original versions were lost, Mrs. Harvey recalled the poems and published them in a book entitled "Sonnets from Captivity and Other Poems." She read the following poems: Rain from Mt. Makeling, St. Francis in the Ruins, Sunset Over Manila Bay, Soldiers and a Child, and Typhoon.

Mrs. Harvey concluded by saying that one wonders if Manila is free. But in spite of all the violence, there still exists the strong backbone of the Philippines. The people are reaching out to the Americans and are trying to rebuild.

At the business meeting which was conducted by Mrs. Phyllis Craft Smith, reports of the district meeting of A.A.U.W. which was held in Kingston last Saturday were given.

Miss Katherine Mizel was chairman of the hostesses for the social hour which followed the meeting.

Reports were made of the rummage sale, card party and new board of trustees. A contribution was voted to the Sheehan Home Fund. Sick committee appointed for November includes Mrs. John Sharot and Mrs. Jacob Francis.

Maj. Helena Clearwater gave an interesting talk about her experiences as a nurse in World Wars One and Two in the Philippine Islands, China and Hawaii. She spoke of the customs and clothing of the natives and had with her a number of samples of their handiwork. She told many amusing anecdotes.

The next meeting will be the Christmas party December 5 in charge of the officers. Members are reminded to bring a gift for their secret pal and a gift for the tree.

Desmond Plans Bill To Aid Public Parking

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 11 (UP)—State Senator Thomas C. Desmond plans to introduce in the 1950 Legislature a bill that would grant a 10-year realty tax exemption to new garages built for public parking.

Desmond said yesterday the bill was designed to encourage construction of parking garages and thus "to ease the motorists' parking woes."

The Newburgh Republican proposed that the realty tax exemption apply to parking garages completed by Jan. 1, 1952. The exemption would be limited to the value of the building. The land would not be exempt.

Garages in New York city would be required to accommodate at least 250 cars to qualify for the exemption. Those in Rochester, Buffalo, Syracuse, Utica, Albany and Yonkers would have to accommodate 150 cars, and in all other cities, 75.

Price Corrections

In the advertisement or Samuels Market in Thursday's issue the price of Florida seedless grapefruit should have been three for 25 cents and the price of pink seedless grapefruit should have read two for 29 cents.

Kingston High Rules Favorite Over Middies in DUSO Game

Remember Columbia over Stanford? Or Columbia over Army, for that matter.

That's the position in which Middletown High School finds itself on the eve of Saturday's DUSO League football contest against Kingston High at Municipal stadium. Games time is 2 p. m.

Actually, the teams are not that far apart and a Middletown victory could hardly be compared with either of those all-time classic upsets.

But this is a ball game Kingston High needs and they're still playing them one at a time on Burke Hill. Tomorrow is the important thing. Thanksgiving Day against Newburgh Academy can take care of itself.

All of which adds up to a rough afternoon for the Middies who are still seeking their first football triumph of the 1949 season.

Middies Geared

Coach Ed Rodick's Middies are as high "up" as they possibly can get, except for the traditional Port Jervis clash, but across the scrimmage line they will find a band of rugged, resolute young men in Maroon uniforms.

Rated off their showing against Sam Kalloch's tough brigade (and they are tough), the Maroon is the solid pick against Middletown. They defeated the Middies convincingly earlier in the season and this is a better K.H.S. club. Whether Middletown has improved at a corresponding rate is problematical.

The Middies are expected to flash a new quarterback find, Earl Oakley, against Kingston. Oakley made a fine impression against Newburgh Academy and may replace veteran Charlie Newkirk. Ray Butler and Roger McClurg are the chief Middletown running threats. By and large, Butler is the man to watch and Coach Bill Burke's scouting staff must be painfully aware of the fact.

At Top Strength

Kingston is at top strength for the crucial game. Only Lou Fusco is a doubtful quantity for full time duty. The first string backfield of Bill Shaughnessy, John Weber, Harvey Keyes and Harold Acker is in good physical condition. Ronnie Scheffel, the leading passer, who threw a pair of TD passes against Poughkeepsie is ready.

While Kingston and Middletown are mauling each other at the stadium, Port Jervis and Newburgh tangle in Newburgh and the Academians rule favorites.

It's Been a Long Time Between Drinks

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 11 (AP)—Remember 1938? Joe Louis knocked out Max Schmeling, Lawrin won the Kentucky Derby and the New York Yankees polished off the Chicago Cubs in four straight in the World Series. And—Trenton State Teachers won a football game.

It took the teachers 11 long years and 45 games before they won another yesterday, 7-6, over hapless Montclair Teachers.

Mylin to Quit Violet Eleven

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Edward (Hooks) Mylin has decided that trying to produce a winning football team at New York University is a job that someone else can have when next season rolls around.

The 51-year-old, Lancaster, Pa., head coach of the once-powerful Violets and N.Y.U.'s Board of Athletic control have agreed to a parting of the ways, it developed yesterday.

Mylin wrote a letter to the board's chairman, Professor John F. Sullivan, on October 24, advising that he did not desire a new contract when his present three-year agreement runs out on February 28. Professor Sullivan said "The board of athletic control is willing to be guided by Mr. Mylin's letter."

Since Chick Meehan departed in 1931, N.Y.U. has had four grid mentors. Now speculation is on as to Mylin's successor, with Ken Strong, N.Y.U.'s great back 20 years ago, among those mentioned.

Mylin, since joining the Violets in 1947, won seven games, lost 15 and tied one. The team has two victories and four setbacks this year. Three games remain on the schedule, with Rutgers, C.C.N.Y. and Fordham.

Justice's Status Still Unsettled

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Will North Carolina's famed halfback, Charlie "Choo-Choo" Justice, play against Notre Dame in the Yankee Stadium tomorrow?

This is what Justice and his coach, Carl Snavely, said yesterday in Chapel Hill, N. C.:

Justice—"It doesn't look like I'll play. After 11 years of playing football it's really tough to miss the game you've always dreamed of playing. It will be the first game I have ever missed because of an injury."

Snavely—"Justice's present condition means that Charlie won't play x x x but injuries of this type sometimes respond to treatment more quickly than expected."

Justice injured his ankle last week as N. C. beat William and Mary, 20-14. "It feels all right when I walk on it," Justice said. "But it really hurts when I try to run."

Yank Ticket Plan Gives Fans Break

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—The New York Yankees are inaugurating a new "ticket plan" that they believe will give the ordinary fan a break.

The fans have been hollering for years that come World Series time they're squeezed out when it comes to getting choice seats.

Yesterday the Yanks announced they would put on sale 10,000 booklets with each purchaser guaranteed the privilege of buying two good seats for all World Series games at the Yankee Stadium should the Yanks qualify for the post-season classic. The price of each booklet will be $25 and it will entitle the holder to 20 regular season games.

Should the Yanks win the pennant all the fan has to do to get two tickets for the series is to present his used up booklet along with cash at the box office and he will receive two good seats for the series.

All bowlers and league officials in the jurisdiction of the Kingston Bowling Association are invited to attend the open meeting on Friday, Nov. 18, at the Y.M.C.A. at 8:30 p. m. Gilbert McMasters A.B.C. field representative, will make an official visit to Kingston. Bowling films will be shown.

D. Jankowski's 420 with 164-118-138 paced the Women's Booster League, while J. Hogan shot 405. Also in the upper bracket were F. Brady's 392, Betty A. Flynn 364, B. Dolan 366, R. Sismilich 366.

Pioneer Women League honors went to Sue Hains who clicked steadily for 491 on 177-144-170. Rita Amarello knocked off 402 and Gerry Reed 420 for other leading scores. Jane Pearson had 384, Virginia Flanagan 395, and Dolly Szymanski 384.

Bob "Red" Gorsline finished strongly to front run with a good 564 series in the Jacobson Mixed League. Jake Scribe Chichelsky was runnerup with 211-521. Francis Duffy knocked off 514; George Long 504; Vesta Hornback 488; Lou Navara 486.

Freddie Ferraro, a good journeyman kegler who does nothing to mar the excellence of the Ferraro bowling name, knocked off a 635 triple to pace a high scoring session of the Bowlodrome Major last night. Ferraro, who throws the nearest thing to a bowling 'slider' we know of, reeled off counts of 231, 224 and 180.

Six other trundlers achieved the coveted "600" while Broskie, the man without a first name, missed by a single stick. Clifton Quick, the analyst, poked 200-192-212-604. Ray Roux had 212-600. Dr. Saul Goldfarb 243-602; Charlie Grunenwald 233-600; Floyd "Hot Rod" Barnum 208-204-200-612; Larry Weishaupt 234-608.

Other highs included Randy Kelder's 212-212-593; John MacLellan 225-201-593; Harold Broskie 202-214-599; and Angelo Ferraro 202-586.

Youth Bowling League Program Gets Under Way

Part of the nearly 180 youngsters in the 9 to 13 year bracket who inaugurated the Kingston Youth Bowling League last week-end are shown at the Bowlatorium prior to receiving instructions and alley assignments. The youngsters roll in weekly Friday afternoon and Saturday morning sessions at the Bowlatorium, Bowlodrome, Central Recreation and Y.M.C.A. alleys. Entries are still being received and names can be submitted at any of the alleys. Several adults of the Kingston Bowling Association and Kingston Woman's Bowling Association are assisting in supervision of the program. Additional instructors and supervisors are needed, particularly for Saturdays. Anyone interested is asked to contact George Van Hoesen at the Bowlatorium. (Dougherty Photo)

A Clean Ball for Good Scores

One of the earliest tips that George Van Hoesen gave the youngsters of the Kingston Youth Bowling League is the fact that a clean ball is most effective against the pins. He is shown demonstrating the technique of the ball-polishing machine prior to the start of the league competition last week-end. (Dougherty Photo)

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Another whirl on the football merry-go-round after having forecast correctly 63 winners in 76 games last week for an average of .835.

That made the season's figures: 406 winners, 100 misses and an average of .802.

Notre Dame over North Carolina: Those ancient "eastern" rivals will jam Yankee Stadium for their 1949 meeting, which could become a massacre if Charlie Justice isn't at his best. North Carolina will need his punting. If Justice's ankle injury hinders his kicking the Irish should win by four touchdowns.

Ohio State over Illinois: The victor of this one is in position to start studying railroad timetables to California and the Rose Bowl. Illini halfback John Karras needs only 46 more yards gained rushing to set a record. He'll probably get his mark but the Buckeyes should get the greater score.

Army over Penn: If Pitt and Virginia can do it, certainly the Cadets can too.

Oklahoma over Missouri: Betting commissioners in the east make Oklahoma a 14-point favorite. It is quite probable that a point after touchdown will decide.

Cornell over Dartmouth: Cornell has the stronger reserves but the aerial duel between Dorsett and Clayton should be breath taking.

California over Oregon: The co-champions of the Pacific Coast Conference race a year ago in their annual struggle. The nod goes to Celeri, Franz and Co., who will be playing at home.

Tulane over Vanderbilt: Eddie Price to make the difference.

Princeton over Yale: Yale coach Herman Hickman personally scouted Princeton last week. He'd be better off had he kidnaped George Selin.

Louisiana State over Mississippi State: That polished L.S.U. backfield certainly should romp here.

Maryland over Boston University: Up to this time Boston has had an all winning season on the passing of Harry Agganis but Maryland is an entirely different kind of opponent.

Alabama over Georgia Tech: The home atmosphere gives Alabama a thin edge.

College of Pacific over Utah: Eddie Le Baron makes his annual appearance in the big time. He is one of the nation's better backs.

Rice over Texas A. & M.: Rice has developed into one of the top teams and there is no indication that the Aggies can produce surprises on successive week-ends.

Michigan State over Oregon State: After Notre Dame, anything is easy.

Skipping over the others in a hurry:

Friday: Miami (Fla.) over South Carolina, Loyola over Nevada, Youngstown over Muhlenberg, Colorado A. & M. over Brigham Young.

Saturday:

Navy over Columbia, Brown over Harvard, Minnesota over Pittsburgh, Syracuse over Holy Cross; Fordham over Boston College, Penn State over Temple, Lehigh over Carnegie Tech, Rutgers over N.Y.U., St. Lawrence over Rochester.

Sports of the Day

(IN BRIEF)
(By The Associated Press)

Boxing

Boston — The Massachusetts State Boxing Commission announced it has joined the National Boxing Association—the last state to enter the N.B.A. except New York.

General

New Haven, Conn.—Robert J. H. Kiphuth, Yale's 59-year-old athletic director and famed swimming coach, collapsed in the Payne Whitney gymnasium while playing handball. He was reported in "critical" condition at New Haven Hospital.

Harrisburg, Pa. — The highest price ever paid for a trotter or pacer was recorded when Imperial Hanover, a yearling, sold for $72,000 on the auction block. Joint purchasers were Sep Palin, Fred Egan and J. J. McIntyre. Trotting officials said former high price was the $70,000 for the great pacer, Algiers, in 1947.

New York—New York University's Board of Athletic Control accepted the resignation, effective after this season, of head football coach Edward (Hooks) Mylin.

Trotter Brings $72,000 at Sale

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 11 (AP)—The United States Trotting Association has a new record financial transaction in its books today. It's the $72,000 paid for Imperial Hanover, a yearling bred by the Hanover (Pa.) Shoe Farms.

The son of Spencer Scott and Earl's Princess Martha was knocked down yesterday at the 11th annual standard bred horse sale to three veteran horsemen—Sep Palin, Indianapolis, Fred Egan, Lexington, Ky., and J. J. McIntyre, Howlings, Va.

Imperial Hanover, most sought after yearling in Hanover's 100-horse consignment, is a full brother of Rodney, harness horse of the year in 1948, and Egan, Hanover, a near two-minute trotter.

Until the Hanover yearling went under the auctioneer's hammer the previous highest price paid for a trotter or pacer was the $70,000 which E. J. Baker, St. Charles, Ill., paid for the speedy pacer, Algiers, in 1947.

Knick Debut Draws Record Crowd; Groza Scores 41

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—A sell-out crowd of 18,135 fans, the largest to see a pro cage game in New York, turned out last night at Madison Square Garden to watch the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association open their home season against the Indianapolis Olympians.

The Olympians, composed of former star University of Kentucky players, turned in an upset 83-79 victory.

Indianapolis was sparked by big Alex Groza.

Groza ran up a season record of 41 points with 14 field goals and 13 free throws. The former mark, set earlier in the young campaign by Joe Fulks of Philadelphia, was 32 points.

Groza and three other former Kentucky wildcats—Wah Wah Jones, Ralph Beard and Cliff Barker—are great drawing cards. The SRO sign was hung out an hour before game time.

Philadelphia — Percy Bassett, 128, Philadelphia, stopped Danny Welsh, 131, Montreal, 6.

Ferraro-Cashara Duel Resumes Tonight; Former Leads by 14 Pins in Big Match

Princeton Points For Big '3' Title

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 11—Princeton's football team was a nervous three-touchdown favorite today to whip Yale as the whole university prepared for the 72nd meeting between the two foes.

Although the week before the Yale game is always a tense one at Old Nassau, the pressure was greater this year for a Princeton victory would mean three straight Big Three titles. Princeton took the lead in the historic three-way competition with a 33-13 victory over Harvard last Saturday.

Alumni and undergraduate interest was reported to be even higher than normal at this time of year, and Palmer Stadium was expected to seat its biggest crowd since the 49,000-plus who witnessed the 1947 Yale game.

Closing Camp Kilmer

Camp Kilmer, N. J., Nov. 11 (AP)—An informal farewell party for nearby residents marked the beginning of the end for huge, war-born Camp Kilmer yesterday. The important embarkation point, which processed more than 5,000,000 soldiers since June, 1942, is going on a peacetime "stand by" basis. Camps Kilmer will be almost entirely boarded up by next April. Only 100 civilians, four officers and one enlisted man will remain to keep it in a "stand by" condition after that. The closing down is in accordance with Secretary of Defense Johnson's economy order of last August.

Cashara Rolls 266 In Saugerties

Leading by 14 pins after a sensational five-game exhibition in Saugerties Wednesday, Angelo Ferraro will seek to extend his margin over Lottie Cashara of Saugerties in the second block of a 20-game singles challenge match tonight at the Bowlodrome at 9 o'clock.

Piling up a big league 1061 for a 212 average, Ferraro came from behind to leave Saugerties with a 14 pin edge over Cashara who hit 1047 for a 209-plus average.

The start of the match in which four hundred dollars are at stake attracted the largest crowd in the history of the Saugerties Recreation.

Has Early Lead

Ferraro grabbed an early lead by shooting 221 to Cashara's 181 in the opener, but the Glasco dynamiter rallied with a huge 266 in the third to lead by 15 pins at the end of three games. He picked up 11 more in the fourth but Ferraro's 222 in the fifth game was the deciding factor in the first block.

Both bowlers showed great form under pressure, particularly Ferraro, who was rolling in his first match game test for money.

The scores:

A. Ferraro: 222, 191, 215, 211, 222—1061.

J. Cashara: 181, 196, 266, 222, 182—1047.

Yale Athletic Director In Serious Condition

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 11 (AP)—Robert J. H. (Bob) Kiphuth, 59, Yale University's director of athletics, is in critical condition at New Haven Hospital today following a heart attack.

The gray-haired perfectionist, who piloted United States Olympic and Yale swimming teams to unprecedented heights, suffered a coronary occlusion yesterday while playing handball at Yale's Payne Whitney gymnasium.

Hospital sources explained that a coronary occlusion occurred when a heart muscle collapsed.

A spokesman said early today that Kiphuth was in "critical condition," but added that "we have been given no more information concerning him."

Fusari 5-13 Choice

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Welterweight contender Charlie Fusari will enter the ring tonight a strong 5 to 13 favorite to defeat Terry Young in the featured 10 round bout at Madison Square Garden.

Fusari, knocked out by Rocky Graziano last time out, will outweigh Young by about seven pounds.

Asks Discontinuance

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has asked Columbia University to discontinue the Lydia C. Roberts graduate fellowships which are limited to "persons of the Caucasian race." The demand, made yesterday, brought a denial from the university that its acceptance and administration of the fellowships funds constitutes discrimination. The fellowships, set up in 1920 through a $419,000 endowment provided in the will of the late Mrs. Lydia Roberts Chamberlain, have been awarded annually since then. The fund provides for four $1,500 and nine $1,000 fellowships.

"Stripping" was begun at the Hibbing, Minn., open-pit iron mine in 1895.

Former Port Ewen Residents' Daughter Wed in Brooklyn

Port Ewen, Nov. 11—The wedding of Miss Adelaide Ballantine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ballantine, former residents of Port Ewen, now of Brooklyn, to Arnold Olsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peder Olsen of Brooklyn, took place at the Second Evangelical Free Church Saturday at 6:30 p. m. The Rev. Stimson R. Smalley and the Rev. Arnett officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parker Thompson was organist and Allan Ballantine, brother of the bride sang I Walk Beside Thee, I Love Thee and Beneath the Cross of Jesus. The church was decorated with candles and chrysanthemums.

The bride was escorted by her father. She wore a white satin gown with fitted bodice, yoke of Chantilly lace, long pointed sleeves and full train. The French illusion fingertip veil with scalloped edges was fastened to a tiara of tiny seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Lillian Olsen, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a lilac gown of satin and marquisette. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink and yellow carnations and wore a halo of these flowers in her hair. The bridesmaids were Miss Gladys Ballantine, sister of the bride, Mrs. Albert Miller and Miss Dorothy Maines, niece of the bride, who resides in Kingston. They wore aqua satin and marquisette dresses, carried pink, blue, white and yellow carnations with matching streamers and wore halos of the same flowers.

Kenneth Christiansen was best man. Ushers were Robert Williams, Stenar Tonneson and Albert Miller, all of Brooklyn.

A reception was held in the church parlors for 100 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Olsen left for a wedding trip through the south. For traveling the bride chose a Burgundy wool gabardine suit, white silk blouse, black velvet bonnet and black accessories and a corsage of white roses. They will live at 580 82nd street, Brooklyn.

The bride was graduated from Fort Hamilton High School and is employed as customs translator for Esso Standard Oil Co., in New York. Mr. Olsen, a graduate of Brooklyn Technical High School, is employed as salesman for Berkshire Fine Spinning Associates. He served two years overseas with the army.

completion of negotiations to buy it.

Rios said he twice circled the airport tower while radioing that he had engine trouble and wished to land. But Pol and airport tower control operators placed the P-38 over Alexandria, Va., several miles to the south, when they first saw it after takeoff.

Rios said the tower had replied "O.K." When he reported having trouble, but tower operators said they heard no trouble report.

Rios said he saw a twin-tailed plane land on the runway and taxi off to the left "no more than three minutes" before he started to descend. Since he had instructions to land second, he assumed his path was clear. He saw no other airplanes.

Previous testimony indicated no other plane had landed between the time of Rios' takeoff and the accident. However, an air force B-25 had made a practice approach without landing after Rios got into the air. This apparently was several minutes before the accident.

The B-25 has a silhouette similar to the type which Rios thought he saw, but Rios said he easily recognizes a B-25.

One of the important points in the first two days of the hearing was the Rios warning to "turn left" which tower employes said they had addressed to "Bolivian 927." (The figures are the last three in the P-38's number).

Rios brought it right up to the collision:

"First, the tower did not tell me turn left, never. They never told me turn left, never. I heard them say 'clear to the left, clear to the left.' Heard them say that, but not to me, not to me. First I should know that nobody should clear to the left without looking first. I was looking, what happened to the left, and that was the time of the crash, when we hit."

McKenney on Bridge

Follow This Hand Played by Expert

BY WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

Before leaving the Cavendish Club in New York the other night, I pulled up a chair behind Leo Roet, of New York, who was playing a rubber bridge game. It was my good fortune to see him play today's hand.

He won the opening lead of the queen of clubs with the king. He led the queen of spades and both opponents let him hold the trick. Leo led a small heart to the jack and East won the trick with the ace. East returned a small heart which Leo won with the queen. The queen of diamonds was played and overtaken in the dummy with the king. The jack of spades was played and East won with the ace, Leo discarding the deuce of clubs from his hand. East returned the ten of hearts which Leo won with the king. He played the ten of diamonds and overtook it in dummy with the jack.

His next play was the ten of spades on which he discarded his ace of diamonds. West won this trick with the king and returned the jack of clubs. Now East had a choice of plays, but it so happened that he discarded a heart. Leo refused to win the club trick and West was helpless. Had East retained the high heart Leo would have won the jack of clubs with the ace. He then would have put East in the lead with a heart and East would have had to put Leo back in the dummy with either a diamond or a spade.

Really, a well-played hand, but one that you expect a champion to make.

Note for Nudities: Montreal Prefers They Be Draped

Montreal, Nov. 11 (AP)—You've got to be careful about your nudism up here, even if you are a statue.

Sculptor Robert Roussil took a pine tree trunk and carved a family group from it—a 12-foot-high father, mother and child. Like sculptors from Michelangelo to Epstein, Roussil was no dress designer. He left the clothes off.

The family went on view at La Librairie Tranquille Bourdeaux. "Indecent," said some visitors to the exhibition. Two policemen agreed. They ordered the family removed.

The angered Roussil removed his statuary. He dumped it outside the Montreal Art Gallery, where a garbage collector—and quite a crowd—found it.

"Indecent," said some of the neighbors, and they called the cops. This time six patrolmen showed up with the paddy wagon. In went the statuary, and off to jail.

Roussil hasn't showed up yet to get his statuary. But there's nothing indecent about Montreal's jail. The police have put a loincloth on the statue.

E. E. Fink Dies

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Eugene Edward Fink, 49, one of Queens leading real estate attorneys, died today in Jamaica Hospital following a heart attack. Fink, who was graduated summa cum laude from Fordham University Law School, was counsel for the Jamaica Savings Bank and represented other business organizations. He was a trustee of Jamaica Hospital, the Queens Bar Association, American Bar Association, the Masons and American Legion. He was a veteran of World War 1. He leaves his widow, the former Blanche Freed; two sons, Eugene, Jr., 17, and Peter, 13; his father, Samuel, and a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Wiley.

Legion Ball Is Enjoyed by 2,000 At Auditorium

More than 2,000 enjoyed the 31st annual Victory Ball of Kingston Post, 150, American Legion, Thursday at the municipal auditorium, where a well-balanced New York vaudeville show highlighted the night's festivities.

Two local bands, Sal Cast's 10-piece ensemble for the concert and show, and Don Pierson's for the assembly dancing that followed.

Commander Morgan D. Ryan welcomed the throng and thanked all who contributed to the success of the affair. Bernhardt S. Kramer, general chairman, introduced Harold Sheehan, a paraplegic, seated in his wheelchair, to whom the journal for the event was dedicated.

Chairman Kramer said, "we proudly dedicate this book to Harold J. Sheehan . . . not because he is a vice commander of Kingston Post, not because he is honorary chairman of our annual ball, not because he is a disabled veteran, but, because he is an untiring worker for the betterment of conditions for veterans and their families; a real inspiration in his efforts for the advancement of veterans' organizations and their work—and, because we of Kingston Post think he is a great guy."

The concert by Sal Cast's orchestra offered a variety of marches, popular music and semi-classical compositions, featuring Albert Rossi and his son, Myron, on trumpets and William Steuding and Harry Castiglione on trombones. Harry Maisenhelder was at the piano.

A comedy dance team Ruth and Tommy Rafferty from Milt Britton's Musical Maniacs opened the show in lively fashion with their Irish jigs and interpretation of Spanish dances.

Joe King, baritone from the musicals, "Desert Song" and "Great Waltz" generously responded to encores. His retinue included "Donkey Serenade," "Desert Song Medley," "Butcher Boy," "Some Enchanted Evening," "Surrender" and "Macushla."

Norma kept the audience in wonderment as she performed feats of magic with the assistance of Abe Singer, a Legionnaire, from whose pockets she took half dollars by the dozens.

The Drakes, Ray and Irene, eccentric dancers, proved the popularity that earned them long engagements at Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe.

Jerry Delmar and Pat Hill with their puppets that danced, sang and played boogie woogie on a miniature piano were favorites with the assemblage.

Eddie Carr, master of ceremonies, closed the show with imitations of topflight entertainers of yesteryear and today, Maurice Chevalier, Jimmy Durante, Harry Richman and was his real old Broadway self with a stream of comedy that made the auditorium ring with laughter.

Peter Koreaman, entertainment chairman, booked the show through Harry A. Shea of New York city.

At 11 p. m., the usual memorial ceremony in honor of those who died in service, and since the end of World Wars 1 and 2, was conducted under the direction of Edward Luedtke.

Chairmen of other committees for the ball were:

Herbert K. Greenwald and John Ray Mayone, tickets; Mario Spina, door; Charles W. Shultis, stage; Philip Toffel, music; Harry Gumaer, history; Donald G. Moore and William Krum, program; William A. Thiel, box office; Harry A. Whitney, check room; Roy E. Jacob, decorations.

Chairmen of committees from the Ladies' Auxiliary assisting on the ball were:

Refreshments, Mrs. Augustus J. Winter; dining room, Mrs. Mary Dulin, assisted by members of the Auxiliary; kitchen, Miss Margaret McManus, assisted by members of the Auxiliary; liquid refreshments, Mrs. Christopher Roche, Mrs. Roy E. Jacobs, Mrs. Harry A. Whitney; flowers, Mrs. William Krum, assisted by members of the Auxiliary.

No Demands in 1949

Detroit, Nov. 11 (AP)—The C.I.O. United Auto Workers will permit 1949 to run out before demanding pensions of General Motors Corp. The union's 250-man General Motors Council decided yesterday to ask formally for $100-monthly pensions early in 1950. The contract will expire May 31 of next year. Exploratory talks on union demands for 265,000 G.M. workers began this week, but management said the conferences were not of a bargaining nature. The auto workers, who put their pension program into a Ford contract in September, currently are pressing for a similar system at Chrysler.
